

The Royal Creed and Prayer of the House Empire

As a citizen of the House Empire, I hold as true the notion that nobility and royalty is a state which is earned, created not by accident of birth, but rather by embodying certain lofty ideals.

As I earn my rightful place among the House nobility, these ideals I will hold as my creed:

Prosperity

I will work diligently and tirelessly to create prosperity for myself and for my fellow human beings.

Massive Achievement

I commit to set my goals high and will strive to make massive change and improvement in the world in which I live through creativity, tenacity, and fearless action.

Longevity

I pledge to take the action necessary to live a long life by caring for my body through good nutrition, regular exercise, and appropriate health care. I recognize that a healthy planet is integral to my own health and longevity and I will take every action to protect Earth and its broad diversity of life.

Love

I recognize that life is greatly enriched through the sharing of love and I will live my life daily in an attitude of love for myself, my family, my friends, and my world.

As a noble person, I hold these ideals as my standard. May I be judged ever so harshly should I betray my beliefs and disgrace this Royal Creed and Prayer of the House Empire.

May it be so.
